Cookie Policy

Use of cookies

Cookies are small files created by websites that you visit that are stored on your computer and linked to your web browser. They are used in order to make websites work effectively, and to provide functionality for web services, such as shopping carts. Cookies also offer a method to distinguish you from other site users.

Cookies come in two variations; "session" cookies - which expire at the end of the user session, when the web browser is closed. "Persistent" cookies - which will remain valid until its set expiry date, or until deleted by the user.

Don't Accept Cookies

If you do not wish to accept the use of cookies, you should no longer browse on this site. If you wish to block third party cookies, this can be done so by changing the cookie setting in your web browser.

Cookies and personal information

The cookies used on this website do not contain any information that can identify you, but information we store about you may be linked to the information stored in and obtained from tracking cookies.
